Mercedes-Benz Group posts robust H1 results as efficiency measures gain traction

- Q2 adjusted Group EBIT reached €2.0 bn influenced by tariffs and macro environment (Q2 2024: €4.0 bn), Q2 Group EBIT reported of €1.3 bn mainly due to adjustments for efficiency measures
- Adjusted return on sales (RoS) in H1 for Mercedes-Benz Cars at 6.2% including tariff impact (excl. tariffs 7.0%), Mercedes-Benz Vans 11.0% and adjusted return on equity (RoE) for Mercedes-Benz Mobility 8.8%
- Q2 Free cash flow increased to €1.9 bn (+14%) reaching €4.2 bn (+9%) in H1; Net Liquidity increased to €30.8 bn (end of Q2 2024: €27.4 bn) underscores financial resilience
- Delivering on biggest-ever product and technology launch programme: Sales release for the all-new CLA in Europe and premiere of CLA Shooting Brake; CONCEPT AMG GT XX unveiled revolutionary drive-train technology; VLE long-distance testing successful
- Outlook: Updated divisional guidance at Mercedes-Benz Cars and Mercedes-Benz Vans to include tariff developments

“We achieved robust financial results in the second quarter given the dynamic business environment. The best response is to stay on course to deliver desirable and intelligent products, while keeping a tight grip on costs. We’re adapting to new geopolitical realities by using our global production footprint intelligently and by executing our Next Level Performance programme, which goes beyond efficiency measures, to increase the resilience of our company.”

Ola Kaellenius, Chief Executive Officer of Mercedes-Benz Group AG

Mercedes-Benz Group AG (ticker symbol: MBG) achieved robust financial results in the second quarter, despite a dynamic business environment and new global tariff policies. All three business units achieved solid EBIT margins. The company generated a robust free cash flow of the industrial business of €1.9 bn in the second quarter (Q2 2024: €1.6 bn) and €4.2 bn in the first six months (H1 2024: €3.9 bn). Net liquidity reached €30.8 bn in the first half (end of Q2 2024: €27.4 bn). Group Revenue and Group EBIT were influenced by the new tariffs. Group EBIT was impacted by €715 mn of adjustments which were mainly for measures to increase operational efficiency and M&A transactions, including for the sale of production and sales capacities in Argentina. The adjusted Mercedes-Benz Group EBIT reached €2.0 bn (Q2: 2024: €4.0 bn).

Mercedes-Benz Cars achieved a robust adjusted EBIT margin of 5.1% in the second quarter and 6.2% in the first half. Excluding the latest additional tariffs, the Mercedes-Benz RoS was 6.6% in Q2. Mercedes-Benz Cars sold 453,700 cars (-9%) in the second quarter, 2% above Q1 2025, influenced by the ongoing dynamic market environment especially in China and due to diligent management of stock to counter tariff impacts. Vehicles accounted for 14.3% of overall sales. Demand for plug-in hybrid vehicles (PHEV) remained strong in the second quarter (+34%) and xEV sales increased by 4%. Second quarter EBIT of Mercedes-Benz Cars was influenced by tariffs, and by lower unit sales and a softer net pricing as well as by efficiency measures, and macro environment.

Mercedes-Benz Vans achieved a healthy adjusted EBIT margin of 10.4% in the second quarter and 11.0% in the first half. Second quarter adjusted EBIT was influenced by lower sales volumes. Mercedes-Benz Vans sold 93,400 units (-10%) in the second quarter in a highly competitive market environment. Sales of electric Vans increased 32% compared to Q2 2024.

Mercedes-Benz Mobility achieved a robust adjusted return on equity of 8.9% in the second quarter and 8.8% in the first half. Second quarter adjusted EBIT of Mercedes-Benz Mobility was slightly above prior-year's level supported by positive effects from financial investments and ongoing efficiency measures.

Outlook:

Mercedes-Benz Group now sees Group revenue significantly below the prior-year level based on lower sales expected at Mercedes-Benz Cars and Mercedes-Benz Vans.

Sales at Mercedes-Benz Cars are now seen significantly below 2024 levels, with sales in the second half of the year in the vicinity of H1. Overall sales in Q3 are seen slightly lower than in Q4. To reflect tariff impacts, the company now sees a new full-year guidance range for return on sales adj. at Mercedes-Benz Cars of 4-6%. For Mercedes-Benz Vans, sales are seen significantly below the previous year, with a stronger H2 versus H1. Including tariffs, this leads to a new guidance range of 8-10% for return on sales adj. at Mercedes-Benz Vans for the full year.
